

Fieldwork

1 First Impressions

Current and historic maps
Web research
Workshop with City planning and preservation staff

Research

2 Context/Classific.

Historic research (secondary, local historians)
Classification of contemporary and historic maps

Synthesis

3 Significance

Examine evolution of current groupings
Define periods of significance

Engagement

4 Participation

Area plan meetings

5 Survey

Assess integrity for groupings built during periods of significance or before a given date

6 Analysis

Map potential landmarks and historic districts
Areas for further study

7 Boundaries

Field-check boundaries of potential historic districts

8 Final Products

Significant property types
Potential historic districts
GIS files
Further study recs

9 Public

Flyers in public spaces
Presentations
Local press and blogs
Community landmarks

10 Praxis

Joint workshop
More detailed research, surveys, and nominations
Preservation plan

Objectives

Quickly become familiar with local geography, documenting experts' perspectives on areas of interest

Gather information on district/neighborhood context; document area development

Layer all information to define district character and highlight areas with potential historic resources

Engage residents in defining their place; integrate preservation into public awareness and planning