Biographical/Historical Sketch

Architect and developer Aaron Colish was born in Philadelphia, the son of Sarah Goldberg Colish and Arthur Colish, and graduated from Northeast High School in 1927 before earning a B.Arch. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1932. He won the Walter Cope Memorial Prize in 1929, and placed second for the same award in 1931. He also earned upper junior honors in the academic year 1930-1931. Colish entered the office of Paul P. Cret after earning his degree. Colish also operated in partnership with Charles G. Etter as Colish & Etter until 1948; Colish established an independent practice that year. Colish joined the national AIA in 1944. He was a member of the Philadelphia Chapter, serving as a director between 1968 and 1970.

Scope and Content Note

This collection comprises photographic materials and memorabilia (chiefly marketing brochures) related to architectural projects of Aaron Colish (1910-1997), as well as drawings not related to projects and a small amount of personal material. The bulk of the collection consists of 56 photographic prints and marketing brochures documenting seven of Colish's projects executed between 1939 and 1967. This includes his most celebrated project, the 2601 Parkway apartment building, which he designed in collaboration with Paul P. Cret. A small number of original drawings, dated 1976 appear to be illustrations for a "history of architecture" modeled on those found in Sir Bannister Fletcher's History of Architecture on the Comparative Method.

Photographs by identified photographers comprise a 1957 portrait photograph of Colish by Fabian Bachrach and project photographs by John Gruenberg (1), E. Penrose (1), Eleanor Price (4), Jules Schick (5), Skyphotos (2), Jacob Stelman (9) and Morris Worrell, Jr. (1)

This collection was assembled from materials remaining in Colish's home and office after his death by Myles D. Wilson, the executor of Colish's estate. The collection contains no project-related architectural drawings, project files, office files or models.

The collection is arranged in four series:

- I. Photographic Materials.
- II. Project Memorabilia.
- III. Drawings not Related to Projects
- IV. Personal Materials.

A full index to architectural projects represented in this collection is found in Appendix A. This list is arranged chronologically based on dates inferred from the photographic materials.
