Biographical/Historical Sketch

Mitchell/Giurgola, one of the most important firms of the "Philadelphia School," was founded by Ehrman B. Mitchell and Romaldo Giurgola in 1958. Both were associated at the time with the architecture and engineering firm of Bellante & Clauss, as was Warren W. Cunningham, who was initially part of their venture. Mitchell, a Pennsylvania native, had earned an architecture degree at the University of Pennsylvania with honors shortly after World War II. In 1951, he joined the Philadelphia firm of Gilboy & O'Malley, which was succeeded by Gilboy, Bellante & Clauss and then by Bellante & Clauss. Giurgola, born in Italy, had first come to the United States to study at Columbia University in 1949-1951. In 1954, he came to Philadelphia to accept the position of assistant professor of architecture at the University of Pennsylvania. One of Mitchell/Giurgola's first commissions, the Wright Brothers' Memorial Visitors' Center at Kill Devil Hills, NC soon attracted critical attention. The firm developed a national and then an international reputation for its projects in the 1960s. In 1966, when Giurgola left the University of Pennsylvania to head the department of architecture at Columbia, he established the New York City office of the firm. When the firm won the 1978 competition for Australia's Parliament House, Mitchell/Giurgola & Thorp, was established in Canberra (1980). Mitchell/Giurgola & Thorp opened an office in Sydney in 1988. In 1990, the Philadelphia office was succeeded by MGA Partners, Inc. The New York office continued under the name Mitchell/Giurgola Architects.

Scope and Content Note

This collection was donated to the Architectural Archives in 2004 and 2005 by Romaldo Giurgola and Mitchell/Giurgola Architects, the New York successor firm to Mitchell/Giurgola. Project-related holdings comprise drawings and photographs for projects begun before 1990. Most of the drawings are design development sketches by Romaldo Giurgola for projects initiated in the New York office. Drawings produced by others in the New York office have remained with the successor firm. The collection contains only a small amount of material related to projects initiated in the Philadelphia office, mostly photographs.

Photographic materials document a larger number of Mitchell/Giurgola projects (both New York office and Philadelphia office), including photographs of drawings, models, site surveys, construction and completed projects. Photographic documentation is not comprehensive, but rather varies in content from project to project.

The collection contains a small amount of personal material of Romaldo Giurgola, including travel slides and a survey drawing made by Giurgola at the American Academy in Rome in 1978.

See Collection 015 for fuller documentation of Philadelphia office projects. The collection contains no materials related to projects of either the New York or the Philadelphia successor firm.
