

Junior Architect

We are a Flatiron-based boutique architecture studio with a fresh team of talented professionals. We combine both innovation and rigor to create beautiful and functional environments, which are the unique result of both the people who inhabit them and the place they inhabit in the world. We pride ourselves on offering extraordinary client service and being exceptional partners with our all of our design, technical and construction industry collaborators.

We are seeking a well-qualified Architect to join our studio which is currently working on design-oriented high-end residential projects in both NYC and the Tri-State area. Our current projects include both NYC pre-war apartment renovations, as well as single-family residential projects which are both ground-up construction and existing renovations.

This is a permanent full-time position for someone with the desire to make a long-term positive contribution toward building a young and vibrant studio. The candidate should be highly motivated and well organized, have the versatility to work on a variety of tasks and scales at one time, and be very detail-oriented. The candidate must have a professional architecture degree, and have legal US work status.

The position involves exceptional opportunities for professional development in all phases of the office's projects...from early design phases through construction administration, including on-site construction experience...as well as being immersed into the general operations of an intimate small-studio environment. The responsibilities shall include drawing & modeling toward both design presentations and documentation deliverables, materials & systems research, as well as the review and processing of samples and submittals. The candidate shall have +/- 1-3 years of professional experience, ideally with some involved in NYC high-end residential apartment renovation work.

We offer a competitive salary and excellent benefits, commiserate with the level and quality of experience. Benefits include top-tier Health, Dental, Vision and Life Insurances as well as generous paid time-off.
