Garth Rockcastle, FAIA, is a founding principal of MSR Design with 33 years of professional experience. While maintaining an active role with the firm and launching MSR's Maryland/DC office, Garth served as Dean of the University of Maryland School of Architecture, Planning, and Preservation for six years. Garth previously taught at the University of Minnesota College of Architecture and Landscape Architecture for more than 25 years and was head of the architecture department from 1990 to 1997. He was elected into the American Institute of Architects College of Fellows in 1998 for his contributions to both education and creative professional practice. Garth has a particular interest in the adaptive reuse and facilities for nonprofit organizations and community development and has served on dozens of boards for cultural and arts organizations. Garth's creative work has been widely recognized in national awards programs and he was recently awarded the 2011 Pennsylvania State University College of Arts and Architecture Alumni Award.
